I m glad I do speak English. I had to learn it because I am a gentleman; and all gentlemen study things and go into the army and go to court. I don t see why. If I were grown up, I should go back to San Donato. When I am a man, I shall live in the country, he added, lowering his voice, and with a hesitating look at the priest, who had seated himself at some little distance from them, and was apparently absorbed in a book taking no heed of their conversation. I should like to live by the sea, you know, and have Father Faber to play to me on his violin. H--m, said Nevil. Look here. My father doesn t go to court. And he isn t in the army either. Well, but, Nevil, all gentlemen are. I don t see why, but they are, Richard persisted, with much gravity. lily father s too busy. He goes down into the city every day and sits in his office. But I d--I d----I tell you what it is, I d punch anybody s head who said my father wasn t a gentleman, said Andromeda. l. 10 Nevil hotly, his face reddening, and his blue eyes beginning to flash. Fortunately, at this critical juncture the door opened again. The Abbe gave one quick side glance up from his book, then went on reading...
